Al, I've seen in the issue management plan that ERM was to assess adding Goldsim expertise to the team. This would include identifying qualified individual(s) as well as estimating costs.

I did a quick google and came up with this individual:

Ted Eary

We know Fred Marinelli with InTerraLogic. He is top notch. If Fred and Ted are connected, I am impressed by association already.

My guess is that you already know of Ted, but if not, here's someone to potentially consider.

I am increasingly convinced that we need someone wholly "conversant" in Goldsim on the agency side of the equation. All things considered, ERM is the correct place to go if possible. Bill.
