Tonya Tennessee
City of St. Paul --

I wanted to get back to something we discussed about a month ago (see below).

I was interested in finding out who the owners of the incoming Major League Soccer team will be. Dr. Bill McGuire of course has mostly been the front person for the team, but there had been earlier reports that members of the Pohlada family, Glen Taylor and other prominent Minnesotans would also be owners.

I was asking you the earlier questions to see if the Mayor's Office had received any indications who the owners might be. Your answer from last month was self explanatory.

We are in addition going to ask Minnesota United the same questions, but wanted to also again approach the Mayor's Office.

Here's my questions:

-- Are there any signed documents so far between the city and the team?

-- If there are signed documents, who is signing them for the team?

-- And, during the many meetings the Mayor's Office has had on the stadium project, who is in the room representing the team? Is it Dr. McGuire and several subordinates? Others?

-- Has Dr. McGuire indicated he will be the sole owner of the team? The majority owner? Has he said specifically what his role will be?

Thanks.
