

Re: Article

---

From: Richard Painter <rpainter@[REDACTED]>
To: Julie Meier Wright <juliemeierwright@[REDACTED]>
Sent: February 10, 2017 9:56:02 PM CST
Received: February 10, 2017 9:56:02 PM CST

Julie

I am very sorry not to respond -you are someone I want to hear from, as opposed to the flood of nut cases who email me every time I go on TV to talk about Trump. Is there any hope of putting pressure on California Republican congressmen to do their jobs and hold Trump accountable?

Please stay in touch about this

Richard

On Thursday, February 9, 2017, Julie Meier Wright <[juliemeierwright@\[REDACTED\]](mailto:juliemeierwright@[REDACTED])> wrote:

Richard, I understand if you don't have time to respond to my emails. You have become a rock star, which makes me very happy. Anything to increase the visibility around ethics (and the missteps of Trump). We need more Republicans to call him out for his unethical behavior.

Don't know if you read Vanity Fair but I thought the attached article on the Nordstrom flack was well done (and loved that their stock closed the day UP). Doubt that Trump could ever recognize that he and his polarizing campaign were likely the reasons for the losses in the Ivanka brand.

Warm regards,

Julie

Julie Meier Wright

Public Affairs . Advocacy . Strategic Planning
Strategic Advisor, Collaborative Economics
Senior Fellow, US Council on Competitiveness
8895 Towne Centre Drive, Suite 105 - #110, San Diego CA 92122
[REDACTED]