NRNR should at least be frozen. Last fall I thought NRNR could go up 7.5%. I think we should be at 0!

This is the year for a reduction. We should not be talking about an increase!

Randy,

I do understand when you received this as to the timing. What do you expect increase in tuition to be next year that you can support? Communication is a two-way street and I look forward to increasing that with you. Take care, Steve

I didn't receive until after our board meeting. It was in response to Joan's proposal and BOR approval. Of course if I knew this I would have brought it up. As Joan used Governor's date as line in the sand, it sure appears that line was drawn earlier. Not good for the BOR or Admin. This could have been handled so much better!

Randy,

Wish you would have told me that when I called you on Thursday. Take care. Steve

That's interesting. I assume President Gabel knew about it. I also received several other emails from frustrated / concerned students and parents. I think there's more to come. Not good and could have been handled so much better for relatively little more expense.

Hi Randy:

No, your email was the first I became aware of this email. And, I don't believe any Regents had it either.

Thank you for sharing.

Brian, please see below. Did anyone in BOR Office have this email information prior to President Gabel's proposals? Did other regents have it as well?
Thanks,
Randy

Dear Dr. Simonson,

Please review the email sent to [REDACTED] who attends UMD requiring [REDACTED] to be out by 8pm March 22nd. The board failed today and the president spun the truth for the University's financial benefit.

Kind regards,
[REDACTED]

Dear [REDACTED]

By this time, you have likely seen the update from President Gabel indicating that classes will be moving to alternative instruction for the remainder of the semester. We recognize that this news may create questions for many of you regarding your living space on campus at UMD.

As indicated in the President's message, housing facilities will remain available for those students that absolutely need them. If you do not need to be on campus, we expect that you will complete your coursework from home. Students must move out of their housing by 8 PM on Sunday March 22, 2020. Information regarding move out is below.

If you are unable to move out or need to maintain on-campus housing, please complete this form to register your request to remain in on-campus housing. Please note that we may need to consolidate students to a smaller number of facilities to streamline operations. If you need to stay on campus, you may need to move to another housing facility - more information on this process will be shared at a later date.

HOUSING INFORMATION DESK

The Housing Information Desk in the Lake Superior Hall Lobby will be open daily from 8 AM - 8 PM. The primary service of the information desk will be to facilitate check outs. We are no longer facilitating check out of items such as movies, sports equipment, or cooking utensils.
